

Project Case Study

The Challenge

Bradleys team were glad to work with renown EPR architects who approached us as they needed to achieve a unique finish to a feature wall. The design required and the size of the wall meant that variation was required horizontally and vertically across several panels. The finish would need to be able to travel across gaps.

The Solution

Starting small we explored the blending of Polymer Finishes to realise the possibility. Having chosen then the correct colours a detail plan was drawn up to show how the blends will go across the wall and down the wall. This was then followed creatively to achieve the reflective effect as it is today.

The Detail

Sixty London Wall is a large workspace, located in the heart of London's financial district, just minutes from Moorgate and Liverpool Street stations. It features eco-conscious design, a coworking lounge, café, yoga studio, and a rooftop terrace, all within a beautifully restored historic building
